HERE IS GOOD NEWS FOR STOMACH VICTIMS

Some very remarkable results are being obtained by treating stomach, liver and intestinal troubles with pure vegetable oils, which exert a cleansing soothing and purifying action upon the lower bowels, removing the obstructions of poisonous fecal matter and gases and preventing their absorption by the blood. This done, the food is allowed free passage from the stomach, fermentation ceases and stomach troubles quickly disappear.

George H. Mayr, for twenty years a leading Chicago druggist, cured himself and many of his friends of stomach, liver and intestinal troubles of years' standing, by this treatment, and so successful was the remedy he devised that it has since been placed in the hands of druggists all over the country, who have sold thousands of bottles.

Though absolutely harmless, the effect of the medicine is sufficient to convince any one of its remarkable effectiveness, and within twenty-four hours the sufferer feels like a new person. Mayr's Wonderful Remedy is sold by all leading druggists everywhere with the positive understanding that your money will be refunded without question or quibble if ONE bottle fails to give you absolute satisfaction. adv 5

SITUATIONS FOR YOUNG MEN AND WOMEN IN DETROIT.

The business colleges are unable to supply the many calls for positions. The Business Institute alone has had nearly a thousand calls during the past six months for bookkeepers, bookkeepers and bookkeepers, which gives one an idea as to the opportunities offered young men and young women who are qualified to fill positions. The Business Institute enjoys an enviable reputation for educating young men and women for positions in offices, banks, mercantile houses, etc. Fathers and mothers who wish to give their children a thorough business education should write for full particulars regarding the educational training of this school. Illustrated catalogue will be mailed free to any person sending their address to Mr. A. F. Tull, President The Business Institute, Cor. Cass and Michigan Avenues, Detroit.

LETTER FROM WILL SULLIVAN

Buena Vista, Colorado.
Sept. 5th, 1915.

Mr. C. F. Brown,
Alma, Mich.

Dear Chas:—

Well C. F. here we are up in the Cascade Mountains, we left North Platte Monday Aug. 30th by the L. Highway and kept the trail to Cheyenne, from North Platte we had a nice trip to Big Springs, went a few miles straight north till we reached the prairie then for miles you could look any way and not see out, now and then you would see a house with few sheds around it all along the trail you could drive as fast as you liked nothing to bother only now and then a chuck hole. After several hours run we began to go up and down hill till we got to Cheyenne, stayed there over night and left the next morning for Denver, the first twenty or thirty miles all you could see was the foot hill and prairie dogs hundreds of them, just before we got to Cheyenne we shot a rattler in the road, we have shot two Bull snakes so far, not much to see or tell about till we got to Fort Collins then we struck the best irrigation, a fine sight to see, men at work letting the water into the smaller ditches all over the fields. I thought that in Nebraska the wheat and oats were fine but they could not be compared with the grain here. All the way to Denver were nice houses and good barns. We arrived in Denver about 3:30 o'clock and had some trouble in finding rooms that were satisfactory, but finally secured some. There we stayed for two days. The first we rented a car while our own was being relieved of several coats of dirt gathered between Alma and Denver.

You could see the mountains for miles around. Here they have a place they call Prospect Hill, from where can be seen eight or ten of the highest peaks. On top of Prospect Hill is built a flat surface of cement with a high curb around it. This was built so that tourists might drive their machines onto it without being in danger of going down the cliff. On the foot of each peak is a sign with an arrow pointing out the road, the name of the peak and its height.

We went into the city park which contains something over a hundred acres. In it are buffalo, deer, moose, and all kinds of western animals. A couple of lakes were nearly covered with wild ducks. In the museum in this park were all kinds of wild beasts and birds of state stuffed and mounted. There were also fish and snakes alive. Minerals peculiar to the state of Colorado were also on exhibition. There were certainly some marvelous specimens of quartz, etc. It took one whole afternoon to go through this museum.

The next morning we took in the business part of the city. Later in the day we left for Colorado Springs, arriving there the next forenoon. In the afternoon we went to Ute Pass, where we saw the Big Ute Chief Monitor Gusher. This constantly gushes out a water that tastes and looks very much like soda water.

Probably the most impressive sight we have yet seen was found in the Garden of the Gods. I cannot describe the magnificent grandeur. When I return to Alma I will bring you a book which shows graphically some of the scenes in the garden.

The next morning we continued our tour with Sault Lake City as our destination, going by the way of the Ute Pass. We also drove on the Pike's Peak Ocean-to-Ocean Highway by the way of Manitou, Lake George, Leadville, Meeker, Roosevelt and Heber City through Cheyenne and from then on what is known as the Midland trail over the Cascade mountains. We drove by easy stages up Pike's Peak some distance. We took several snapshots up there.

I am sitting in the machine writing this letter and it is so cold that I can scarcely move the pencil. All the rest of the party have long since retired for the night. We are on a small plateau. The roads are very good so far. I could write all night and still not mention half of the interesting things I've seen, nor am I certain that you have been informed at all by what I have already written. There is so much to enjoy as we travel along.

I hope that everything is all right in Alma. I remain

Yours very truly,

W. C. Sullivan.
